A Cover Letter

(to why I am vying for a U.S. Senate seat from Alabama)

There are some Alabamians who are in collusion with federal officials in trying to take my things. Don't take my things. As the oldest of my siblings, when I was about a two year old, my mother carried me to Rogers Department Store (it's closed now after 80 years in business) on Court Street and there was something I wanted in the store that my mother wouldn't buy for me; so, I stood at the door when we got out of the store while she walked about twenty feet to the corner to cross the street and saw a white police (they were all white then) sitting on a black motorcycle in front of her and pointed at him and told me if I go in that store that police was going to get me and he waved at me and I ran and caught her--from then on she left me at the house until I was a teenager. She caused my composition of hold in thrall. Dad would always tell me to listen to mom and not to talk back when I tried to tell some things to her--especially school. Well, for the first time I was arrested during the time the last president (one before the present one) was in office because the former apartment owner who is a psychological counselor, a minister, and a graduate of the Central Public School that I desegregated during the 60's (along with about twenty other students). Also, the U.S. Representative from the Lauderdale County area is a graduate of Central--I believe--along Florence's black city councilwoman and with someone I had considered my friend who also came to my late mother's funeral--we desegregated Central together but she also played a part in me having a sexual assault from a Redstone Arsenal black soldier (E-5) who was a friend of hers when she was an Alabama A&M College student; I was a 20-year old at the time, as well as going into my third year of college. I have never attended a predominantly black college. And the former apartment owner evicted me (after I had paid him at least $65,000 in monthly rent) and carried me to court because I would not go to the Marriot Inn where he (the apartment owner) had reserved a room for me for two days so he could upgrade the apartment I'm in--I believe it is a violation of procedure due process, equal protection of the law, disparate and disparaging treatment of the 14th and 5th Amendments of the U.S. Constitution. I walked to that court--Lauderdale County--each time I was to meet for fear that I would be late because I didn't know when a taxi would arrive after I had called.

My Name

Drew Boddie, who was born about 1861, married his wife Sally and she gave birth to about four sons in that marriage before he passed, and one of those sons married a Boddie (of about 14 siblings and no relation to his set) and a son and a daughter were to that union. The son (dad, who passed when I was about an 11-year old and mom became a widow) carried his father's namesake. Mom and dad eloped across the Mississippi line when she was a 17-year old and gave birth to me almost a year later--none of my family are immigrants; from all sides can be traced through to 1861. I started to school in the three room school named after Dad's Mother's family Methodist Church across from it in the Boddie name and from then on have been in the same surname. Dad joined his father's church and he and mom were of the same denomination. I've been subjected to and the object of attacks, exploits, abuse--a real sinister arena in north Alabama--I wear grey to match my grey hair.

Ms. Lillie Boddie

I became a U.S. Army Veteran last and on a disability (mental and emotional)
