8 POSTHUMOUSLY COMMENDING JUDGE JAMES EDWIN HORTON,
9 JR.

11 WHEREAS, we posthumously honor Judge James Edwin 12 Horton, Jr., with highest commendations; and

13 WHEREAS, an upright man, Judge Horton espoused 14 meritorious characteristics that represented the heart of the 15 justice system and how it is supposed to virtuously operate 16 for the good of all United States citizens; and

17 WHEREAS, in 1933, Judge Horton displayed abounding 18 integrity and fairness while presiding over the retrial of 19 lead defendant, Haywood Patterson, in the Scottsboro Boys 20 case; equipped with fortitude and a strong set of morals, he 21 went against the grain of popular opinion and ordered a new 22 trial for Haywood because he believed that the verdict was not 23 supported by substantial evidence; his poignant instructions
24 to the jury in the Patterson case, which were commemorated on 25 a plaque in his old courtroom shortly after his death, are as 26 follows: "So far as the law is concerned it knows neither 27 native nor alien, Jew nor Gentile, black nor white. This case

1 is no different from any other. We have only to do our duty
2 without fear or favor."; and

3 WHEREAS, born January 4, 1878, in Tennessee, he was 4 the son of James Edwin Horton, Sr., also a judge, and Emily
5 Donelson Horton, who was the great niece of President Andrew
6 Jackson; he earned a Bachelor of Arts Degree from Cumberland
7 University in Lebanon, Tennessee, and a law degree from the 8 Cumberland School of Law; he embarked upon his distinguished 9 legal career clerking for his father before entering into 10 private law practice; he served in both the Alabama House of 11 Representatives and the Alabama Senate; in addition, he served 12 as a chancery court judge and as a circuit court judge for two 13 terms; he lost a third term as a circuit court judge because 14 of his courageous, remarkable decision in the Patterson Case;
15 afterward, he spent his life farming and practicing private 16 law; he was married to Anna Hobbs Horton, and their union was 17 graced with two sons, James Edwin Horton, III, and Donelson
18 Branch Horton; and

19 WHEREAS, through the years, Judge Horton earned
20 immense respect for his tireless dedication and exceptional 21 abilities; he left an inspiring legacy for many to cherish and 22 emulate; now therefore,

23 BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF ALABAMA, BOTH
24 HOUSES THEREOF CONCURRING, That Judge James Edwin Horton, Jr.,
